

FROM FAR CORNERS OF RESERVATION NAVAJOS COMING TO THE FAIR

David L. Thompson. Former Albuquerque Man. Signs Contract to Put on Big Indian Show in October.

BIG CHIEFS ANXIOUS TO COME TO TOWN

Wearing their brightest blankets and loaded down with the silver ornaments of which they are so fond, a batch of Navajo Indians, the native, wild and woolly Savages, who arrive in Albuquerque on Sunday afternoon, the day before the State Fair begins here on October 2, The Navajos will be brought here from Pueblo Bonito, on the Navajo reservation in Northwestern New Mexico by David L. Thompson, who formerly resided in Albuquerque but who has for many months past conducted a trading store at Pueblo Bonito, the store being formerly conducted by Richard Wetherill who was killed by the Indians about a year ago. Thompson, who signed a contract with Secretary Manager John B. McNamee of the fair association, agreeing to bring the Indians from the reservation to Albuquerque and take care of them while here.

Thompson is in Albuquerque on business and visiting his mother. Before he left Pueblo Bonito for this city he was besieged by the Navajos who asked him to arrange for them to come to the fair. The Indians have been here several times before and have always been well treated. They wish to come again and the fair officers will be glad to have them. The fire dances, the relay races, lontacos, broncho riding and other like events, participated in by the Navajos form one of the biggest attractions at a fair. The present year has been a prosperous one with the Navajos and they will put up a good show. Their horses are fat and sleek and the Indians are confident of winning the relay races, and have entered several strings of ponies. Thompson, himself, has entered two strings, having entered one string from the Arizona mountains.

It is not yet known who will be chief of the band of Indians coming to Albuquerque. There are more than a half dozen applications in with Thompson for the job of big chief and the matter will probably be settled by casting lots. One old chief Hostine Six Gen Iglesias, who is 85 years old and who has never seen a town larger than Cabezon, which is the smallest kind of a village, has decided to come to Albuquerque and take in the fair. He will come as a chief or as anything else just as he gets to come. Six Gen Iglesias, according to Thompson, has never before wished to see a white man's town, but since the idea to see a city has taken possession of him, is very anxious to make the trip to Albuquerque. Six Gen Iglesias, the pale face in the early days, and his body is covered with bullet wounds and sabre cuts. Hostine Yazzale and Hostine Ryad, two other noted chiefs, also want to come to the fair and it is certain that a class bunch of Navajos may be expected.

Thompson will see to it personally that visitors to the fair are provided with better entertainment by the Navajos than ever before. The Indians come from far corners of the reservation and will meet at Thompson's store in Pueblo Bonito and Diarrhea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by all dealers.

atives in Albuquerque, not taking any chances on seeing out their houses. The trip from Pueblo Bonito to Albuquerque is one of the most picturesque and interesting in the world. Near Pueblo Bonito are the famous Indian ruins which are now included within a government park, but which were despised as vandals of their valuable before the United States took and interest in them.

NO DECISIONS BY SUPREME COURT THUS FAR

Adjournment Today Until 10 O'clock Monday Morning: Cases Argued and Submitted Today.

(Special Telegram to Evening Herald)

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 18.—The supreme court of New Mexico adjourned this afternoon without handing down any decisions. Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning, at which time the business on the calendar will again be taken up. The record for today, all Justices being present, follows:

No. 1167—M. F. Serna versus American Chicle Company, remanded by the Supreme court of the United States affirming the decision of this court was received and filed.

No. 1197—Eagle Mining and Improvement Company versus Lund, the mandate of the supreme court of the United States dismissing the appeal was received and filed.

No. 1286—Collins versus Schumpp. The motion for an additional bond was granted. Also the motion to allow the appellants not to print transcripts.

No. 1382—Joseph Brown Oliver versus Jose Euringas. This case was argued and submitted to the court.

No. 1378 and 1379, the Caledonian Coal Company versus Rocky Cliff Coal Company, argued and submitted.

Court adjourned today until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

COURT HOUSE NOTES.

Elizabeth Ridley Rimbler, attorney for attorneys, Marion and Wood, entered suit in the district court today for the recovery of a share of the estate of the late Matthew Ridley. The plaintiff is a daughter of the first marriage of the deceased and accuses the second wife of Matthew Ridley under protest of a power of attorney of falsely assuming title to certain real estate which was the property of the deceased. The plaintiff as rightful heir demands a portion of this estate of Mathew Ridley.

F. Garcia and E. Torrez, who appeared in the court of Justice Craig this morning charged with stealing or a calf, were acquitted on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Mariage licenses were issued by the probate clerk today to Fannie B. Lavelle and J. C. Smith, both of this city. This is the culmination of a romance that had its inception in Arkansas, both applicants having originally resided there. Curtis Morris, aged 18, was granted a license to marry Jose Maria Benitez.

In the Air.

In Europe war is in the air, and that is fitting, for the experts long have said the next would be an aerial war.

An ordinary case of diarrhea can, as a rule, be cured by a single dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. This remedy has no superior for bowel complaints. For sale by all dealers.

THEORIES ABOUT ABORIGINES IN NORTH AMERICA VALUELESS

Dr. Eduard Seler, Noted Ethnologist and Archaeologist, In Albuquerque Today en Route to Snake Dance.

CURATOR OF ROYAL MUSEUM IN BERLIN

After having delved deep into the hidden past in an effort to bring to light some evidence that would tell the origin of the aboriginal tribes of North America, Dr. Eduard Seler, a noted ethnologist and archaeologist, curator of the American department of archeology in the Royal museum in Berlin, and a scholar of international repute, today said that as yet there had been no satisfactory answer to the question, "From whence the American Indians?"

For thirty years Dr. Seler has studied and worked, comparing, contrasting and investigating the languages, customs, religions and dwelling places of primitive man on the North American continent. His researches have taken him from Greenland, the most northern point, to Fireland, the most southern point. He has delved into ancient ruins in all parts of the world in the hope of stumbling onto a clue that would answer the unanswered question.

Dr. Seler arrived in Albuquerque today from Mexico, where he has been since last September, studying and working, and directing the International School of American Archaeology and Ethnology, recently organized. Dr. Seler will leave tonight for Gallup, from which place he will begin the overland journey to the first mesa, where he will attend the Moqui snake dance. While in Albuquerque received yesterday and containing information that Edward Cole, who probably lived at 219 South Broadway this city, had been dangerously wounded, but the Coles to believe that Ed Cole had probably been the victim.

Ed Cole, mother of Mrs. Cole, who lives at 219 Broadway, was greatly alarmed because of the telegram, and for that matter it is still a mystery how the Centralia authorities obtained the address of the Cole family in this city. The following telegram received by the Evening Herald today confirms the belief that the man who was shot was not the Cole boy.

Centralia, Illa., Aug. 18—Evening Herald, Albuquerque, N. M.

Ed Cole, printer, worked here two weeks ago, but left here ten days ago, saying he was going east. He is not the man who was shot Wednesday.

The latter man is red headed, small in stature and the supposition is that "Ed Cole" is a fictitious name. He knows nothing about the printer's business.

After participating in the Convention Americano Congress and assisting in the institution of the International School of American Archaeology and Ethnology, of which he was named the first director, Dr. Seler took his pupils from the school and visited the various ruins of Pueblo, state of Chihuahua. At those ruins Dr. Seler discovered ancient frescoes, below more modern whitewashing. He then spent 1900 in the provinces of Yucatan, visiting the wonderful ruins of Chichen Itza, Kabah, Labna, Uxmal and Chichen.

After attending the snake dance at the first news in Muskogee Dr. Seler will go to San Francisco and then will return to New York, returning to Berlin.

MERT COLE NOT MAN WHO WAS SHOT IN CENTRALIA

Albuquerque Printer Left Illinois Town Two Weeks Ago: Telegram Explains Mix Up Satisfactorily.

Relatives of Mert Cole, a young typewriter operator and printer of this city, who was reported to have been shot in Centralia, Illa., yesterday, are now satisfied that it was another man who was wounded, telegrams to this effect having been received here today. A telegram from Centralia to the chief of police in Albuquerque received yesterday and containing information that Edward Cole, who probably lived at 219 South Broadway this city, had been dangerously wounded, but the Coles believed that Ed Cole had probably been the victim.

Ed Cole, mother of Mrs. Cole, who lives at 219 Broadway, was greatly alarmed because of the telegram, and for that matter it is still a mystery how the Centralia authorities obtained the address of the Cole family in this city.

It is predicted that the coming agricultural season will be lean. Some of the hams will not be able to bring home the bacon.

Still she slept.

He groaned three times as loud as he could, and she didn't awake.

Then the boy, in his crib in another room, sighed softly in his sleep.

The woman was on her feet and standing beside its crib, anxious eyed in an instant.

"And I actually thought," said the man, "that she loved me more!"

DRENCHING RAINS FALL IN WILLARD AND ESTANCIA

Automobile Line Between Two Towns Is Put Out of Commission: Assure Bumper Crops.

Special Correspondence to the Herald

Willard, N. M., Aug. 18.—The valley from the mesas south of Willard to Estancia was today drenched by one of the heaviest rains of the season. The automobile line between Willard and Estancia was put out of commission about half way between the two towns and the passengers were carried to the former place through the kindly auspices of a nearby farmer.

This rain extended over a wide scope as it was raining east of Vaughn this afternoon. The clouds indicated that the Manzano and Progress sections were also receiving a generous downfall.

Yesterday Estancia and its immediate surroundings had a heavy rain. The report is that the Cebelis nomination clattered sections of the valley—McIntosh and Mockery—have not been opened in recent days by E. Judith Pluvius.

These rains have come very opportunely and are having a cheering effect upon the residents of the valley. They assure the bumper crops so confidently expected earlier in the season.

What He Thought.

A man awoke one night with a toothache.

He groaned, he turned and twisted, he howled, he sat up and lay down again. He arranged his pillow and pressed it against his face with another grown.

His wife slept on and never moved.

He wanted attention, he wanted sympathy and he groaned again.

Still she slept.

Injury added to the pain; it wasn't treating a fellow right to sleep like that when he was suffering with a painful tooth, and he called her name.

Still she slept.

He groaned three times as loud as he could, and she didn't awake.

Then the boy, in his crib in another room, sighed softly in his sleep.

The woman was on her feet and standing beside its crib, anxious eyed in an instant.
